

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

Federal Grants

Pell Grant: The Federal Pell Grant Program provides need-based grants to low-income undergraduate students to promote access to post-secondary education. For many students, the Pell grant is the cornerstone of their financial aid package. To be considered for this grant, students must fill out the FAFSA .

Eligibility

- Available to undergraduate students pursuing their first undergraduate degree and not enrolled in a professional program. Students with a prior bachelor's degree cannot be considered.
- Students must also be making Satisfactory Academic Progress, as defined in your program catalog

Grant Limits

- Awards ranged from $636 to $6,195 during the 2019-2020 academic year depending on the Expected Family Contribution (EFC) calculated from the FAFSA. The closer to zero the EFC, the larger the possible award.

Required Credits

- To receive the maximum award (100%) you must be enrolled in 12 or more semester credit hours per quarter.
- If enrolling in 9 to 11 credit hours per semester, you may receive up to 75% of the maximum award.
- If enrolling in 6 to 8 credit hours per semester, you may receive up to 50% of the maximum award.
- A minimum award may be made for students enrolled in less than six credits per term

Payment

- Pell Grant is paid by the semester, one-half of the annual award for fall term and one-half for spring term. If a student attends less than full-time both semesters or only attends one term, they may have Pell eligibility for the following summer term.
- Pell Grant is credited to the student's account no sooner than the first day of the semester or as soon as the award is ready.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG)

Federal grant program for undergraduate students with exceptional need and can be awarded from $500 to $1,500 per year. To be considered for this grant, students must fill out the FAFSA.

Federal Loans

A loan is financial assistance that enables students and parents to borrow money from the federal government or private lenders. These loans must be repaid. Borrowers are responsible for signing a Master Promissory Note for each loan program, which is a binding, legal document through which the borrower agrees to repay the loan. To be considered for any of these loans, students must fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) online at <https://studentaid.gov/h/apply-for-aid/fafsa>.

Federal Direct Loans: A federal student loan, made through the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program, for which eligible students and parents borrow directly from the U.S. Department of Education at participating schools. Direct Subsidized Loans, Direct Unsubsidized Loans, Direct PLUS Loans and Direct Consolidation Loans are types of Direct Loans. This chart gives the annual limits of the Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans by student type:

Federal Direct loans are loans based on financial need for which the federal government pays the interest that accrues while the borrower is in an in-school, grace, or deferment status. Unsubsidized Direct loans are loans for which the borrower is fully responsible for paying the interest regardless of the loan status. Interest on unsubsidized loans accrues from the date of disbursement and continues throughout the life of the loan. Repayment for these two loans begins after graduation or when the student drops below part-time. The student has up to 10 years to repay these loans.

- Student must be enrolled at least half time (6 credit hours for undergraduate students)
- Current fixed interest rate 2.75 as of 7/1/20
- Current origination fee of 1.059% as of 10/1/19 (this fee is deducted up front and thus lowers the actual net amount of each disbursement that appears on your tuition bill)
- Rates may change depending on legislation so please visit the Federal Student Aid Interest website for the most current information

In order to receive funding from the Federal Direct Subsidized/Unsubsidized Loan program, you must complete Entrance Counseling and sign a Master Promissory Note (MPN). Both of these must be done before funds will be released from the federal loan center.
